

The Letter "Q"

The letter "Q" cannot stand alone.

He must be accompanied at all times by his buddy "U";

If you ever take away his partner then he will succumb to a serious case of separation anxiety.

"Q" will thrash around and make all sorts of words shudder.

All of a sudden you will be confronted by "anqer" and "sqreaming" and "anqst".

This he will do out of spite, because his "U" is not there to calm him down.

"Q" can make your life miserable if you do not give him the respect he deserves.

It is for this reason that he had to petition for the right to be in the word "quiet"

Because we all know he would kick up a very noisy fuss if his wish wasn't granted.

"Q" revels in the sophistication of his words

For example, "quadraphonic", "quantum", and "querimonious".

If "Q" were a person he would try to replace the letter's C, E, and O.

This "Q" would do so that he could always be at the top.

"Q" is ashamed of the fact that he looks like an O with a tail sticking out of his rear.

Q is jealous that he makes almost the same sound that C and K do, but he is used far less often.

"Q" is underappreciated, and well aware of the fact.

"Q" can give you a headache—

In fact, it is his wish that it be spelled "headaque".

Because I've already got one right now.